

MEMO FROM THE MAYOR

SUBJECT: When 5th Generation Warriors Partner with America's Deep State Globalists, Part I

- "If ye love wealth better than liberty, the tranquility of servitude than the animating contest of freedom, go from us in peace. May your chains sit lightly upon you, and may posterity forget that ye were our countrymen!" —Samuel Adams (1776)
- "The supreme art of war is to subdue the enemy without fighting." —Sun Tzu (c. 500 B.C.)

To correctly analyze what is going on in our psychosis-riddled country, we must quit using twentieth-century-think. After all, Dorothy, we're not in the twentieth century, anymore. Right vs. Left; Republican vs. Democrat; Conservative vs. Progressive—none of these dichotomies fit the current multi-faceted paradigm in which we find ourselves. Instead, we appear to be at that point in our history where it's National Populism vs. Globalist Totalitarianism. Indeed, that puts us in a real Us vs. Them stalemate.

The Us comprise the "Americans-come-first" crowd, while the Them comprise the one-world-government cabal led by Klaus Schwab and the World Economic Forum, also known as the you-will-own-nothing-and-be-happy cult. In other words, Americans will always come last.

Nevertheless, Klaus is correct. We the People will own nothing in the world that Herr Schwab and his globalist elite friends (mostly billionaires) attempt to fashion. For one, the elite totalitarians will own it all. But don't despair. Schwab and his fellow cultists promise we'll have more bugs to eat than we can possibly handle—a kind of macabre cannibalistic irony, since the globalists view We the People as bugs.

Will 5th Generation Warfare Have 6th Generation Jets?

In Memos long past, this author has written about fifth-generation warfare. By way of quick review, this type of "fight" is conducted predominantly through means of non-kinetic military actions, the "soft-power" as my US Army War College professors described it. For example, much of the psychological operations conducted by the world's militaries qualify as fifth-generation, namely, social engineering, misinformation, disinformation, cyberattacks, not to mention the newly emerging artificial intelligence and fully autonomous systems. Our country is subjected to much of this on a daily basis through the various media, domestic and foreign.

(Although, the first Trump Administration received better objective media coverage from the RT and Al Jazeera TV networks than CNN or MSNBC provided.)

This is how the Big Bully of the East, our biggest existential threat as a near-peer military competitor, and who just happens to be a top-five trading partner to boot (of all things), sees fifth-generation warfare: (1) psychological warfare; (2) smuggling warfare; (3) media warfare; (4) drug warfare; (5) network warfare; (6) technological warfare; (7) fabrication warfare; (8) resources warfare; (9) economic aid warfare; (10) cultural warfare; and (11) international law warfare. Does anything in that list ring a bell?

Please understand, we've been in an undeclared war for at least two decades with that near-peer competitor. Yet, the typical American citizen is either clueless about this fact, has not connected the dots, or worst of all, simply doesn't care. Our near-peer competitor has killed more of our citizens with the assistance of their crucial Mexican cartel allies by supplying them the fentanyl that killed and kills more of our citizens than all American combat deaths suffered since the Korean War. According to usafacts.org, 2022 alone gave the U.S. 73,654 fentanyl overdose deaths. At the current rate, the U.S. will eclipse all combat deaths in the twentieth and twenty-first centuries before the end of the decade.

Nothing to See Here, Move Along

How is that not an act of war? Easy—the elites don't care, so we shouldn't either. Small-forever-wars comprise the current framework, not the big kind of wars that could turn every major city in the United States into a pile of radioactive refuse. Good grief, that's bad for business.

In Russia, this genre of the continuation of politics (policy) by other means (a tip of the hat to Carl von Clausewitz) is known as “New Generation” warfare. It also prioritizes the soft power of the psychological over the kinetic. The Russian annexation of Crimea in 2014 during the Obama Administration is an example of this doctrine. Ironically, the Russian view is that their New Generation doctrine will cut personnel and equipment losses if the conflict switches to kinetic. While the current two-year-plus slog in Ukraine fails to support that theory, it must be kept in mind that Putin doesn't have the battle-hardened forces that defeated Ukrainian Nazis eighty years ago, having been annealed by the Depression years and the Stalinist purges of the Thirties.

Let's not fool ourselves. The Globalist Totalitarians are not all hunkered down in Europe standing by for Russia to lob a tactical nuke into Ukraine, then waiting for the rest of the party to begin. They're scattered all about our country, as well. Many globalists are in Congress. Some lurk in state legislatures. Some are governors. All are far richer than we are, and they care more about their bottom line than their country.

The next memo will focus more on what is meant by America's Deep State Globalists. For starters, think every elected official that consistently votes for more government control of our daily lives at any level of government—regardless of party branding—and the vast majority of unelected bureaucrats in the Washington, D.C. bubble who work for an alphabet agency—any alphabet agency to include the Department of Defense (DoD), the biggest oxymoron of all.
